WHEREAS on the 15th of July laſt, two Pointers were ſtolen from my Court-Yard in the Night Time, and from thence conveyed to Watford, Herts, by two Fellows procured from London, and inſtructed in the Method of accompliſhing that wicked Deſign by a Perſon living in this Town, calling himſelf a Gentleman, and by him aſſiſted with other Fellows of Abingdon to accompany them, and ſhew them the Avenues of the Court-Yard, and give them Aid and Aſſiſtance. If either of thoſe Fellows will appear and make ſuch Diſcoveries as will be ſufficient to convict the ſaid nominal Gentleman of his Part in that atrocious Fact, he ſhall, upon ſuch Conviction, receive from me the Reward of Ten Guineas.

ABINGDON, BERKS,
Sept. 27, 1768.

Witneſs my Hand,

BENJ. TOMKINS.
